fraction of a second. He does this, and sets the master clock accordingly. There are three other clocks which are set by the master clock. These always are ready to be switched into the telegraphic circuit. At 11:55 a. m. they are switched into the telegraphic circuit, and every connected clock in the country east of the Pacific time belt, ticks in consonance with the clocks on Georgetown Heights. In the middle of each minute a second is skipped—the 29th—and at the end of each minute five seconds are skipped until the last minute is reached, when there is a silence of 10 seconds, and then every hand moves to 12 o'clock in the eastern time belt, 11 o'clock in Central, and 10 o'clock in mountain. Thus is the country's time set right for another 24 hours.

Dropping of the Ball. There is said to be no government that maintains so many time balls as the United States. It has some 20 of these in all the principal ports and other important points throughout the country. It is said that the one in Washington is the most expensive small institution the government has. Every day at noon the majority of the government employees, from Capitol hill to Georgetown, stop to watch the time ball on the state, war and navy building.

While a nation has to figure on hour variations, a world must figure on variations of a full day. It became necessary, when globe-wide travel ceased to be an unusual thing, that somewhere a ship should turn back its time a full day when going west, just as a railroad train turns back its time an hour when crossing a time belt from east to west. When traveling east the time must be moved up a day. When crossing the international date line from west to east the ship adds a day. Thus, a vessel coming from Japan, if it reached the international date line on Monday, October 24, would repeat that day in its log; while if it were bound to Japan it would jump Tuesday, October 25, and enter Wednesday, October 26.

This international date line theoretically is the 180 meridian, precisely as far west of Greenwich as it is east of that point. But practically it extends through the Pacific from the Aleutian to the Fiji Islands. Greenwich has been made the prime meridian of the whole world. Everything is either east or west of Greenwich. The nations agreed upon that meridian as the starting point of all longitude because of the fact, that at the time of the agreement, 65 percent of all the vessels and 72 percent of all the tonnage that sailed the seas used the Greenwich meridian as the basis of all calculations.

These were the only convictions had at the present term, although quite a number of cases were tried.

The sewer contractors expect to complete the sewer system of this city by October 1. The cost to the city will be approximately $50,000 and marks another step in the progress of the town. The major part of the trenches have been blasted from solid granite formation and this has delayed the completion of the contract. The large septic tank will be put in place the coming week, by which time the system will be ready for the approval of the city council.

Extensive improvements are being made on the Sheridan block on Yankee street by Joe Sheridan, mine inspector of the territory and owner of the block. Hodge Bowdware, the young son of an assessor, Bowdware, is in a local hospital, being threatened with typhoid fever.

He returned to conclude the criminal business, but will likely be unable to remain here this week to try a number of important civil cases. Matt Fowler is in Socorro attending the present term of court.

Attorney Henry E. Pickett, of Tombstone, is visiting in the city and attending to some business matters. He is a son of Col. H. L. Pickett, who formerly practiced law here and is now an active candidate for United States senator from Arizona.

The Victor Land & Cattle company has made another large purchase of ranches and cattle, buying out Geo. V. Yates & Son. The ranches lie between Faywood and the Mimbre river. The cattle will be delivered in the next few weeks and are expected to number 500 or 600 head. This company recently purchased all the holdings of Edward Dickinson, known as the 2 C ranch and brand of cattle.

It some 1200 additional acres of patented land, situated about five miles from the company headquarters at Apache Tejo, and the 2 C cattle are now being gathered and will likely number more than 1000 head. The new purchases give the company much valuable land and water rights, adding its large holdings in that portion of the county.

An important discovery of prehistoric relics was made at the workings of the Chino Copper company, a short distance from Apache Tejo, where the company is excavating for a large reservoir. James Campbell, an employee of the company, who is assisting in the excavations, discovered a number of large teeth, well preserved, and with an exterior polish as clear as a new tooth. The tooth is full four inches in length and about one and a quarter inches in diameter. The entire find is now being preserved and will be brought by Mr. Campbell, who will possibly donate them to the Museum of the National school. The find was discovered near the bottom of the excavations for the reservoir, in the loose sand and rock, at a depth of 20 feet below the surface. In this section of the country and around Faywood Hot Springs several important discoveries of Indian and prehistoric animal relics have been found.

It Did Wonders

For That Tired Feeling

"I am getting along fine, and feel splendid, since taking Cardui," writes Mrs. Stella Halquist, of La Porte, Minn. "I used to have backache, headache, and that tired-out feeling. I had other troubles, too, and dragging sensations, but they have almost disappeared now. I cannot praise Cardui enough, for it has done wonders for me."

If you are weak and ailing, feel tired all the time, or experience any of the troubles to which women are peculiarly liable, you can rely on Cardui being of benefit. Its ingredients are mild herbs, having a gentle, tonic effect, on the female constitution. No other medicine or tonic has exactly the same results as Cardui. No other has the record of 50 years of successful treatment, of cases of female weakness.

The principal ingredient of Cardui is imported direct from Europe, by us, and is of superior efficacy in the treatment of womanly ailments. Cardui is not like other medicines. It is different. It does the work.

Cardui has helped over a million women, and thousands have written letters full of enthusiastic praise for what Cardui has done for them.

It is certainly worth trying.

Why not test it for yourself? It will mean a great deal for you, if it cures you.
